Session One: The Everycat Health Foundation is an international non-profit that focuses solely on feline health. Through annual grant cycles, they award funding for scientific research to provide a brighter, better future for all cats, including shelter cats, pedigree cats, community cats, your cat, and my cat. In their 53 year history, they have funded more than $8 million in studies and are behind many of the life-saving treatments cats receive today.

Jackie Ott Jaakola is the Executive Director of The Everycat Health Foundation and has thirty plus years' experience in animal welfare. She spent many years working in marine mammal rescue in Los Angeles before working for Wallis Annenberg with her efforts helping animals and in the creation of Wallis Annenberg PetSpace. In 2018, Jackie's focus became feline-specific as she moved

Session Two: Many shelters are experiencing an increase in calls, responses, and inquiries about wildlife and the public. With the spring season upon us, the encounters with wildlife in our communities increase. Educational outreach and appropriate responses are vital in assisting the community and wildlife within. The Human Animal Support Services Wildlife working group has developed several tools and resources to assist shelters support wildlife education and reduce human-wildlife conflicts. They will review the newly released resources and answer questions.

12:00:53 From Erica Schumacher to Everyone:

Sorry if this was said and I missed it but please remember you need a licensed wildlife rehabilitator to house/care for most wildlife longer than 24-48 hours. This toolkit is fabulous for that initial intake/triage and care!

12:02:58 From Rory Adams to Everyone:

Thanks everyone! email me anytime rory.adams@americanpetsalive.org

12:03:23 From Eliza Torres to Everyone:
