

They Need Your Help!

One of our worst fears came true on Monday. A litter of nine puppies was surrendered after they were found on a person's property and three of their siblings had passed away unexpectedly. The puppies appeared to be very sick and after testing each one, it was confirmed that they were all infected with canine parvovirus, which is a highly contagious and often deadly disease. They are also infested with fleas and have intestinal worms.

Our clinic staff immediately isolated the puppies and started monitoring and treating them, but sadly one was too sick to survive. We are doing everything within our power to help the eight remaining puppies regain their strength and fight off this horrible disease. It will be a lengthy and costly journey, and we need your help.

The puppies need IV and subcutaneous fluids, antibiotics, dewormer, flea treatment, vaccines and continuous staff care. We expect it to cost $8,600 to keep them alive. This doesn't include what it will cost to hopefully prepare them for adoption, including spay and neuter surgeries, once they have cleared the virus.

Please help us raise $8,600
for the parvo puppies!
